

Heessen Castle

ages 9-13

Heessen is a district of the town Hamm in North-Rhine Westphalia in the Ruhr metropolitan region. The former mining town Hamm is nowadays known for its varied cultural offers and many public green spaces, among them Maximilian Park with its glass elephant, one of the major landmarks of the city. The spacious school premises of Heessen Castle combine tradition and modern comfort and offer our young guests not only a great variety of leisure time opportunities, but also a school canteen which is certified by the German Nutrition Society. There are many attractive destinations in the region for our Saturday excursions, among them the metropolis Cologne, with the world famous cathedral "Kölner Dom" and one of the children's all time favorites, the chocolate museum.
