Course content and teaching methods

The Standard Course focuses on learning and actively using language structures – this way the instruction is very much practice oriented. But what does this actually mean? Your teacher will assign you an active role while studying German and will draw you and your fellow students directly into his interactive instruction. We try to avoid that you just sit there passively, listening what the teacher is going to explain up front. Your teacher will help you studying the language by instructing you clearly and thus enabling you to develop and to explain grammatical rules and structures on your own and independently. Because only when you actively understand what you've learned you will also memorize and internalize it permanently.

In the Standard Course, German language will always be practiced and taught in context by using as far as possible authentic, everyday life language situations. This way you will study language in everyday, professional and university situations – after all, you study towards a well-defined goal and you want to focus on that from the very beginning. In that case you might decide for the Intensive Course since it'll give you the opportunity to concentrate intensively on the language goals. No doubt, the Intensive Course is definitely the best choice if you want to prepare for an exam, no matter if you go for a diploma exam at did, the TestDaF or the DSH – the Intensive Course is going to prepare you in the best possible way and will help you to pass these exams successfully.

Course content and teaching methods

Unlike the Standard Course, the Intensive Course also provides enough time to work on up-to-date topics from politics, culture and science. Hence, the four language skills listening, reading, speaking and writing will not only be trained based on a textbook but the teachers also use supplementary, specially selected materials. It is the birthday of a famous German politician or artist? There are interesting political news from Berlin? It often happens that the class will discuss the current news and interesting events in the Intensive Course, that current topics will spontaneously become part of the program the class was going to work on at the moment. Thus, you study German and you will be fully informed at the same time.

The Intensive Course covers 24 lessons. Two lessons each will be taught on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the afternoons. While we closely work with the textbooks most of the time during the morning sessions, the afternoon seminars open up possibilities for an intensive communicative training. The teacher is organizing the instruction in such a way that all participants can actively

The specialty of the Premium Course, however, is that it combines a dynamic group atmosphere with an utmost individual learning flexibility: We expect your contributions, your personal suggestions and ideas, you tell us what you need to study, what you want to learn, or where you still feel having some problems.

Far more than in all the other courses, in the Premium Course you and the other students will become the main characters in class, because the course focuses on your participation and relies on your contributions. In this type of language training the instruction is determined by your individual pre-knowledge and the language goals you want to reach. Your teacher will arrange the instruction completely according to the content you have decided on: What are the linguistic terms for discussion or describing a graph? You can book individual instruction in addition to the 3 group courses Standard, Intensive and Premium. Furthermore you can decide how many individual lessons you want to study with a private teacher – however, you should take at least 2 units per week. If you decide against group instruction and for studying exclusively with a private teacher, you'll have to register for at least 20 units per week.

Let's be egoistic! At least if you're interested to learn German perfectly and as quickly as possible... If you want to study German very intensively and if flexibility is important for you, you should study one-to-one – with a teacher who takes care of your personal needs. If you decide for this type of language training, you will not have to share – your teacher is only focusing on you and your learning progress...at any time! You didn't understand an explanation? No problem – you can go over this once again...as often as you want!
